

Axiom Consultants Joins Ruekert & Mielke, Becomes 100% Employee Owned

August 13, 2024

Engineering Firms Now Offer Comprehensive Solutions Across Iowa and Wisconsin
Iowa-based engineering firm Axiom Consultants (Axiom) is excited to announce that it has joined Ruekert & Mielke (R/M), a Wisconsin-based leader in municipal and agricultural engineering. This strategic addition to R/M brings together two strong engineering organizations, providing numerous opportunities and benefits for both employees and clients.

Joining R/M means Axiom employees are now part of an employee-owned firm. Employees from both firms will gain access to new growth opportunities enhancing career development. Rob Decker, Co-Owner of Axiom shared, “We are thrilled to join the R/M family. This move provides our employees with exciting new prospects and an employee-owned culture that directly aligns their success with the company’s success.”

Clients of both firms will benefit from a broader range of services offered under one cohesive team. Brian Boelk, Co-Owner of Axiom added, “I’m excited about the benefits this new chapter brings to our clients. Combining our building services expertise with R/M’s municipal engineering and environmental experience offers more comprehensive solutions and a deeper team of experts to solve their problems.”

Stan Sugden, President & CEO of R/M, said, “We are excited to welcome Axiom as employee owners. Their reputation, expertise, and Midwest culture complement us well. Together, we are stronger, expanding our geographic reach and the industries we serve, while offering solutions to a broader client base. We look forward to the incredible accomplishments we will achieve as one unified team.”
