

BKF Engineers Partners with Long Point Capital and Creates Unlimited Opportunities

September 03, 2024

BKF Engineers (BKF), West Coast based civil engineering and land surveying firm, announced today that they have partnered with Long Point Capital (LPC), a New York-based growth-oriented private equity firm that focuses on the A/E/C industry. This partnership will leverage LPC's resources and expertise, including capital, strategic guidance, sector knowledge, and a broad network of relationships. BKF will continue operations under its current management team and will expand its successful business platform, enhance its service offerings and expertise to clients, and support its expansion into new geographic markets with this new partnership.

"This announcement isn't just about a milestone; it's about answering the call from our employees and clients to grow our service offerings and expertise. We're committed to reaching new heights to better serve our community," said Greg Hurd, President and CEO of BKF Engineers. "Our current strategic plan focuses on unlimited opportunities and our partnership with LPC will help accelerate our goals. By combining LPC's resources with BKF's leadership and exceptional team, strong industry relationships, and reputation, we will create new opportunities for our team to better serve our clients and positively impact the communities we call home. We're thrilled to embark on this exciting new chapter and remain dedicated to delivering inspired infrastructure™ that is functional and enhances the quality of life across the West Coast."
