Natick, MA (October 31, 2024) – Bowman Consulting Group Ltd. (“Bowman”) entered into a definitive purchase agreement to acquire Exeltech Consulting, Inc. (“Exeltech”) based in Lacey, Washington.

Exeltech specializes in bridge design, transportation planning, environmental compliance, civil engineering, landscape architecture, permitting, and construction management for owners and operators of transportation infrastructure, transit facilities, ports and harbors, waterfront developments, building structures, and storm drainage and utility systems. “Exeltech complements Bowman from both a services and geographic footprint perspective,” said Gary Bowman, chairman and CEO of Bowman. “The structural bridge design and transportation infrastructure experience of the Exeltech team expands the capacity and reach of our rapidly growing national transportation and ports and harbors practices.”

“We have steadily grown Exeltech and successfully expanded our reach within our markets, and now we want to extend our reach nationally,” said Santosh Kuruvilla, president of Exeltech. “Joining with Bowman offers us the opportunity to align with a rapidly growing national firm with a commitment to expanding in areas where we are highly experienced.”
